Sgt. Cougill is an American hero, not just because of his service in the Marine Corps, but more importantly because of the way he lived his life for others. His selfless nature impacted everyone that had the privilege to know him. Perry valued family, friends, and his country. After his service in the Marine Corps, which included two tours of duty in Operation Iraqi Freedom, he enrolled in college. Getting his education was the next thing to check off his list in life. He received his degree in History from Park University.

Sgt. Cougill passed away in October of 2019. In memoriam of a great man, his family would like to pass on his legacy through this scholarship fund. Any Lamoni graduating senior is eligible for this scholarship. We are looking for a student with ambitions to better themselves and others, either via going to a college or university, trade school, military service, etc. If your future goals are not listed here, do not be discouraged from applying, all are welcome to apply for this scholarship.
